Lucrative Honesty. WATCH

"Oh, Tom," said a young wife to her husband, "I found a truly honest man this morning." "Indeed?" said he laughing iron-

"Yes, I did," she said. "He was a tramp-oh, so dirty and ragged and sick-looking and miserable! He came around the back way, and begged me in the touchingest tone of voice just to give him any old coat or trousers, so that he could throw away his rags and be a little cleaner-so I gave him that old lack coat of yours."

"Hm-m-m-m!" said Tom, raising is brows critically.

"Now don't say 'Hm-m-m' that way," pouted his wife, "for before he had been gone ten minutes he came back all out of breath, and EWELER -what do you think?"

"Asked for a vest and hat to suit the coat," growled Tom.

"No sir," proudly exclaimed Mrs Tom. "No sir; he came to bring back a five-dollar bill he found in Silver and the inside pocket, where you had forgotten it last summer! There, wasn't that honest?" Umbrellas,

"Yes-s-s," said Tom, slowly What did you give him for it?" "I thought such unusual honesty was worth a dollar-so I gave it to him. Such honesty deserves reward, I'm sure."

"I suppose it does," said Tom with a lugubrious look, as he reached out his hand for the bill, "only you see, wifey, I never carried money in ny inside pocket in my life, and-' She caught her breath.

How Sailors Pull Teeth.

Sailors often suffer from the tooth ache, and have to bear the pain as best they can until they reach the shore. One day a certain captain seeing a sailor's mouth in a bad condition asked the cause. The poor fellow had suffered so long with TEAS and COFFEES a bad tooth that his patience gave We are acknowledged to be the leaders and can out. Then he took a chisel and nammer, and found a comrade who was willing to cut off the top of the Fresh Butter & Eggs as possible and fired. His ingenuity was rewarded, for the tooth followed the bullet into Choice, Fresh the air. His experience, however, made him buy a set of dentist's instruments. But strange to relate he never had any use for them, though he followed the sea for many vears.

Beech During Thunder Storms.

No tree is entirely protected against being struck by lightning. When the atmosphere is overcharged with electricity all of them are liable to become the aim of some bolt, but the beech is the one in the whole category of trees that is more rarely struck than any other.

Prof. Hellman, in his statistics on this subject, says that lightning strikes pine trees fifteen times oftener and oak fifty-four times oftener than beech. This fact is very well known to frequenters of timbered regions. Traces of lightning bolts are more frequently found on oak trees, while only rarely are they observed in the beech. It was thought at first that the condition of the ground had much to do with this unequal distribution of lightning strokes of trees, but this is not the case. It is the characteristic condition of the tree itself that accounts for it. Trees which contain oily substances to a high degree, even in the summer, may be regarded as comparatively lightning-proof, while those containing glucose matter attract the lightning more frequently. Dead branches are very apt to increase the danger. It need only be cited that acorns are valuable because they contain 55 per cent. of glucose matter and only 4 per cent. of fat, while from the nut of the beech, pig-nut oil is made.-St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Can Odors Cause Deafness? Everyone does not know that aromatic salts and very strong pungent odors are injurious to the nerves of smell, and often produce serious, if not incurable difficulties.

Of the disease to which it is adapted with the besresults, Hoseteter's Stomach Bitters, a family medleine, comprehensive in its scope, has never been thrust upon public attention in the guise of a unit versal panacea for bodily ills. This claim, daily arrogated in the columns of the daily press by the proprietors of medicines far inferior to it as specifics has in a thousand instance disgusted the public in advance by its absurdity, and the prospects of other remedies of superior qualities have been handicapped by the pretentions of their worthless predecessors. But the American people know, because they have verified the fact by the most trying tests, that the Bitters possesses the virtures of a real specific in cases of malarial and liver disorder, constipation, pervous, rheumatic, stomach and kidney trouble. What it does it does throughly, and mainly for this reason it is indorsed and recommeaded by hosts of respectable medical men.

For Over Fifty Years Frequent indulgence in the use of such perfumes will soon overtax the secretory organs and weaken them. Some day the person observes that the hearing is less acute than usual, and the seuse of smell seems defective.

This is, of course accredited to a cold, and but little is thought of it.

A Surgical Operation.

For the cure of Piles is always painful, often dangerous and useless, and invariably expensive; on the other hand there is a new, certain cure, perfectly painless, gives instant relief and permanent cure and costs but a trifle. It is the Pyramid Pile Cure. It is a more certain cure than a surgical operation, without any of the intense pain, expense and danger of an operation. Any druggist will get it for you.
